

Ears

Name: _____

Ear Facts

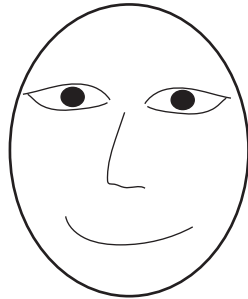

- Your ears are for both hearing and your sense of balance.
- The smallest bone in the human body is in the ear.
- Elephants also use their ears to signal that they are alarmed or angry.
- Crickets have their hearing organs in their knees.
- A giraffe can clean its ears with its long tongue.
- Dolphins have small ears, but they have excellent hearing.
- Spiders do not have ears. They hear through tiny hairs on their legs.

Do you know any more interesting facts about ears?

Where are your Ears?

Draw your ears on this face. Try and get the correct position and size.

Look in a mirror and compare your reflection to the drawing.

How close were you?

Did you draw your ears too big, or too small?

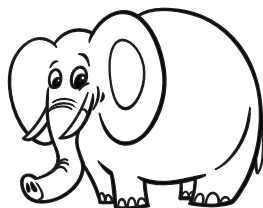

Did you place your ears too high or too low?

Big Ears

Elephants have very big ears and good hearing.

What are some other animals that have big ears?

Draw three animals that have big ears.

Sound Words

Select a suitable 'sound' word from the list provided.

The lion _____.

The old train _____.

The frogs _____.

The owl _____.

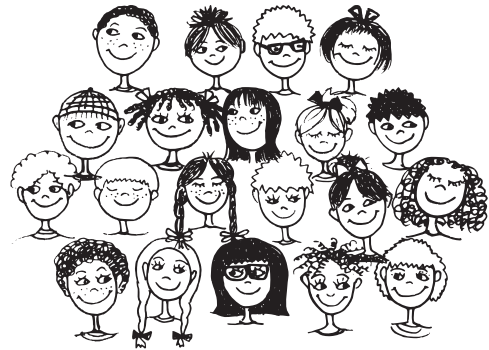

The crowd _____.

The little mouse _____.

hooted squeaked cheered croaked barked rattled roared

Number Crunchers

This is grade 1's class picture.

How many students are in grade 1?

If every student has two ears, how many ears are there altogether?

If half of the class are girls, how many ears do the girls have altogether?

How many ears do the boys have altogether?